DefendAir - In Flight Retail Benefits

- Reduces theft and losses to realise better profits
- With less product losses - more product is available to sell onboard
- Adds another layer of security to some of the more valuable and targeted in-flight containers
- Downloaded event log can also provide sales activity data, such as how frequently the container is used onboard and how long it remains open for
- Equipment usage data can provide information on trends by route, destination, time, etc.
- If seal is damaged or in the unlikely event of a failure, the cart is still useable and can be sold from
- Seal has a 10-year lifespan, during which a vast sum of money would otherwise be spent on disposable seals
- A single, reusable seal is far more environmentally sound than the continued use of thousands of disposable seals
- Compatible with current airline & customs paperwork and crew & bond procedures
